Vegetation Maintenance

Keeping Power Lines Safe And Reliable

Hydro One has the largest in-house utility vegetation maintenance team in North America. Our team follows utility best practices and selects the most effective methods and techniques to manage vegetation, creating sustainable and healthy corridors.

Our team considers these guiding principles when developing vegetation maintenance plans for our high-voltage transmission corridors every 6 to 8 years, and our distribution rights-of-way every 3 years. We believe that through early engagement and open and transparent communication that Hydro One can continue to be an accessible community partner.
